TO BE A 'NON-PROFIT' OR A 'FOR PROFIT'

Infinite Water Inc believes that successful companies do not need to choose one or the other but instead can choose to be both.

Generally, for-profit companies seek to provide a product or service to consumers and make a profit by doing so. A nonprofit organization's purpose is to provide a service or benefit to the community with no intention of earning a profit. Companies, like those under Infinite Water Inc, endeavor to provide the highest ROI for their investors and still fulfill their mission of providing safe, clean potable water to the billion people living in water stressed areas of the world.

In the position of Infinite Water Inc, they established Infinite Water Org because small nonprofits that won't be seeking donations don't need to spend the time and money applying for federal tax-exempt status. If the nonprofit isn't expecting to seek donations, they don't need 501(c) status (since no donors will need a tax write-off). It is the position of Infinite Water Inc to provide money, from the profits of their various subsidiaries, to generously manufacture and then donate Atmospheric Water Generators to areas designated by the UN and WHO as areas in need of water.

Infinite Water Inc believes that it is their responsibility and that of their subsidiaries to do whatever is possible to provide a healthier environment for our planet and the life on our planet.
