Water Under the Microscope

Infinite Water Inc. and Infinite Complex has spent many years of development time and money in an effort to bring the worsening fresh water reality to every living person who, aware of it or not, has their lives in jeopardy. For Infinite Water Inc. and Infinite Complex, in the beginning it was “don’t waste water, & “don’t pollute water”. That is no longer enough.

Water is no longer a silent utility—it is a very strategic resource which has become the axis connecting infrastructure of government regulation, and the focus of climate action, and geopolitics. The sector is entering a new phase, shaped by global risks and coordinated responses. While ‘tariffs’ dominate the news, consider that critical water stress—proof that hydrological instability is now a systemic risk for global trade.

Infinite Water Inc. and Infinite Complex points out a tidbit which should make every reader stop and think- European corporations dominate the global water services market, with the largest being the French companies Suez (and its U.S. subsidiary United Water), and Vivendi Universal (Veolia, and its U.S. subsidiary USFilter). These two corporations’ control over 70 percent of the existing world water market. If you haven’t been paying attention The result of water privatization is predictable. With the bottom line being the only thing that really matters to these corporations, price hikes and water quality problems will certainly follow. This pattern extends to billionaires buying water rights as they would gold. The result is that water systems around the globe fall victim to the privatization.

Infinite Water Inc. and Infinite Complex encourages you to watch and see at the same time do research into the off grid means to get away from the coming of unaffordable water. Infinite Water Inc. and Infinite Complex lead the world in Atmospheric Water Generation technology which is the safest, and most economic, means to avoid the creeping of water gouging that is coming your way.
